IMPROVING THE COLLECTION OF

Social Determinants of Health (SDOH) Data with ICD-10-CM Z Codes

What Are Z Codes?

What Are SDOH & Why Collect Them?

SDOH-related Z codes range from ICD-10-CM categories Z55-Z65 and are used to document SDOH data (e.g., housing, food insecurity, lack of transportation)

Z codes refer to factors influencing health status or reasons for contact with health services that are not classifiable elsewhere as diseases. injuries, or external causes

Using Z Codes for SDOH

SDOH are the conditions in the environment where people are born, live, learn, work, play, worship, and age that affect a wide range of > health, functioning, and quality-of-life outcomes and risks1

The World Health Organization (WHO) estimates that SDOH accounts for 30-55% of health outcomes²

Collecting SDOH can improve equity in health care delivery and research by:

Empowering providers to identify and address health disparities (e.g., care coordination and referrals)

Supporting quality measurement

Supporting planning and implementation of social needs interventions

Identifying community and population needs

Monitoring SDOH intervention effectiveness for patient outcomes

Utilizing data to advocate for updating and creating new policies

- SDOH information can be collected before. during, or after a health care encounter through structured health risk assessments and screening tools
- These codes should be assigned only when the documentation specifies that the patient has an associated problem or risk factor that influences the patient's health
- Coding professionals may utilize documentation of social information from social workers, community health workers, case managers, or nurses, if their documentation is included in the official medical record
- SDOH information can be collected through person-provider interaction or self-reported, as long as it is signed-off on and incorporated into the medical record by a clinician or provider
- It is important to screen for SDOH information at each health care encounter to understand circumstances that may have changed in the patient's status
